M'KINLEY OFF ON BIG TOUR.

Maniac Tried to Force His Way Into White House, but Was Arrested—Crowd Bids President Farewell.

IMPERIAL LUXURY OF M'KINLEY'S PROGRESS.

It will extend through twenty-five States. It will pass over 15,000 miles of railroad tracks. It will take forty-eight days to make the progress. It consists of eighty persons, forty of whom are "servants." The other forty include the President, Cabinet officials and others. Six reporters, four photographers, two telegraphers and two stenographers will be taken along. Seven of the most sumptuous carriages make up the train. Of these seven the most magnificent is the Olympia, in which the President will ride. Barbers, ladies' maids, valets, chefs, masseurs and bootblacks go along. All this magnificence is the gift of a group of railroad magnates. This isn't a "royal progress," and there isn't a word in the American dictionary to fit it.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—President McKinley, with Mrs. McKinley, four members of his Cabinet and a party of guests, friends and clerks, forty in all, and forty attendants, left at 10:20 A. M. to-day for a seven weeks' tour through the twenty-five States of the South and West. Nearly 15,000 miles will be travelled by rail.

A special train of seven Pullman cars—the Olympia, Atlanta, St. James, Charleston, Pelton, Guilford and Omaha—fresh from the shops, was brought early to the station. A great profusion of flowers from the White House conservatories were distributed through the various cars with good effect.

Members of the party reached the station early. Secretaries Root, Gage and Attorney-General Knox came to see the President start on his long journey. Gen. Corbin and others were also at the station. Each member of the party was given a card of identification, announcing the holder to be the President's immediate guest.

All the choicest luxuries.
A sufficient quantity of provisions was taken on board to serve until the train reaches New Orleans. Servants from the White House will cook the President's meals. All the choicest luxuries have been put in stock for his refectory.

So much baggage was brought to the station that changes were made necessary in the combination car Atlantic to provide more room. It is thought an additional baggage car will be taken on at New Orleans.

Each member of the party is taking along sufficient wearing apparel for the entire journey, and the aggregate has proven something surprising.

President's Flag Hoisted.
The Cabinet Ministers and other members of the party will dine on the St. James. This car has a crew of nine cooks and waiters. The President's flag was hoisted when the train came into the station. One was placed on the little rod at each side of the engine. This

DERBY DAY IN KENTUCKY.

Alard Scheck the Favorite—His Eminence Next Choice.

(Special to The Evening World.)
LOUISVILLE, April 29.—Had the weather been made to order it could not have been more propitious for the running of the twenty-seventh Kentucky Derby. With a clear sky, fast track and evenly matched starters it should satisfy the institute. There is a rumor abroad that at least one more colt might be added to the list, but it cannot be confirmed.

The following, however, will certainly go to the post:
Alard Scheck, 117, J. Woods.
Driscoll, 110, Boland.
Amur, 110, Dupre.
His Eminence, 117, Winkfield.
Sannasarro, 117, O'Connor.

It will be the most open Derby run in recent years, and there are three horses, Alard Scheck, Sannasarro and His Eminence, any one of which may win the event. If the public confidence is to be taken as a criterion, Alard Scheck is the favorite at 5 to 2 and even money. His Eminence at 5 to 2 second choice and Sannasarro, 2 to 1 and 1 to 1. Even Amur at 10 to 1 and Driscoll at 20 to 1 are not without friends, however, and received liberal backing this morning, although the real scramble to get the money on will not begin until the crowd has the Downs this afternoon.

The Lexington contingent will back their horse, Sannasarro, and they are confident he will land the coveted prize.

BRIDE BEREFT IN STRANGE WAY

Young Husband Gone Without Explanation—Crime Feared.

Sorrow has followed a wedding when was solemnized in St. Agnes's Roman Catholic Church, Patterson, by the Rev. Father Corrigan, a brother of the Archbishop of New York.

The young couple received many substantial presents showing the esteem in which they were held. The bride was Miss Annie McDermott, sister of Lawyer Robert McDermott, and the bridegroom, Joseph Roach, was recognized as one of Patterson's coming business men.

Last Saturday evening Roach, who is only twenty-six years of age, left his place of business and went home for his evening meal. He seemed in good spirits and joked with his wife. Suddenly he arose from the table, leaving his meal unfinished. He said that he had forgotten something at the office and, bidding his wife put his unfinished meal in the oven, told her he would be back in a few minutes. He never came back. No one can be found who saw him after he left his home.

To-day the distracted wife visited the police station and reported his disappearance. "We never had an angry word," she said, "and he was very successful in business. Every Saturday night he gave me $25 to run the house, and last Saturday night he did not leave me any money. He had plenty of money when he left me, and I am afraid that something has happened to him."

PITTSBURG BLOCK SWEEP BY FIRE.

Baby Burned to Death, Shoppers in Panic and Several Buildings Destroyed.

PITTSBURG, April 29.—An entire block of buildings on Carson street, from South Sixteenth to South Seventeenth streets, in the shopping section of this city, was swept by fire to-day, and in an hour was a mass of ruins.

One life was lost, a two-year-old child being burned to death.

When the fire broke out there was a throng of shoppers in the stores on the block and these, in a frenzy of fear, running from flames, met occupants of the burning houses who were driven to the street.

A jam and a panic resulted and several persons were bruised and trampled. The fire started in the basement of the four-story department store of George Lorsch & Bro., and in a short time the entire building was burning furiously.

A panic ensued among the customers and employees, which resulted in what seemed at first a well-founded report that eight persons had perished.

This, however, proved untrue, the only fatality being the burning to death of Mrs. Alice Donley's two and one-half-year-old child.

When the fire broke out Mrs. Donley and her baby girl were on the fourth floor of the Lorsch Building. In her haste to escape, the mother fell on the stairway and was rendered unconscious.

In the excitement the child was either forgotten or burned before aid could reach it.

The fire spread both ways, the flames leaping across the street. Over a dozen buildings were destroyed and others damaged.

The loss was about $250,000.

BAVARIAN POLICE CATCH "RIPPER."

Eighteen Women Victims—Man Trapped After Long Search.

LUDWIGSHAFEN, Baden, April 29.—Jack the Ripper, who has mutilated eighteen women, has been caught here by two detectives attired as women.

It was announced from Berlin March 21 in a despatch to the Associated Press, that the Bavarian Police had captured the man who for several months previous had been terrorizing Ludwigshafen by a succession of outrages such as were committed in the Whitechapel district of London years ago by a man who was termed "Jack the Ripper."

The man then taken into custody was a butcher named Danian. He was subsequently released.

HANLON'S TEAM FACES KID NICHOLS

South on the training trip. The youngster disappeared again Saturday. His actions have been queer, and Seale thinks he may have been kidnapped by the American League.

Kelley Guy's Long.
"Hello, Herman!" sang out Joe Kelley to Herman Long, the ancient but sprightly short stop for the Beaneaters. "Are you still in the game? I used to peek through the fence to see you play when I was a kid."

"On our way, Father Time," retorted Long. "I was the best boy for your club the fifth season you were in the league."

WASHINGTON PARK BALL GROUND, Brooklyn, April 29.—About an hour before to-day's game was scheduled to begin Manager Seale sent Vic Willis and Dineen over in a corner of the lot where the sun was shining with midsummer warmth, to timber up.

The loss of the Beaneaters took a position of vantage in the bleachers and noted carefully the work of his catcher. "It's up to one of you fellows to win the game to-day," he said. "If that bunch of Hanlon's gets a good start on us at this stage of the game we never will catch 'em. It seems to me you fellows are having a lot of trouble getting warmed up to your work this spring. There's about an hour yet before the game is called. See if one of you can't get ready to go in and work fast enough to win."

Willis Warm Up.
The elongated Willis wound himself up in a knot and untangled himself again many a time during the next half hour for edification of the manager of the Hubbers, and the husky Dineen perspired and labored and wished it wasn't any warmer than it is up in Canada, where he hails from.

Hanlon decided to send one of the "Black" on the pitching corps, James O'McCann, to the slab. Like Seale, he had his brace of boxmen warming up early in the afternoon.

"Say, Kennedy," remarked Foxey Ned to "Roaring Bill," "bring out that 'Busters' Dope Book of yours and put those fellows wise to what kind of balls these Boston chaps can hit. Three games out of the four in this series will not hurt us at all."

Faulkner's Disappearance.
Manager Seale reports a case of kidnapping, or at least a mysterious disappearance. He corralled a most promising young twirling wonder named Faulkner early this spring and took him

LATEST NEWS Told in TABLOIDS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 28. Sabbath Day in Sleepstown. There may be some more up to date Where life is steeper up and down. But for contentment, truly great. In quiet forget life's stern estate Give me, oh, just and kindly fate, A Sabbath Day in Sleepstown.

I'm not come here to get a "kiss" And in the wisest way I've known down. But just to tell in bed till late And rest a weary added pace Give me, oh, just and kindly fate, A Sabbath Day in Sleepstown.

"I say amen to that," said Manager George Davis of the Giants, as he watched the poetry recite from the grandstand.

Why, say! this is the greatest baseball town on the map for a manager. The boys have got to rest, Willy Nilly. Just imagine a slice of the Tenderloin brought down from New York on Sunday and slipped into the centre of Philadelphia. Why, they'd ring in a general police alarm and a fire department double six in a minute and dump the joint in the Schuylkill River before Devory could say "so!"

After a Quiet Sunday. That is one good reason why the Giants all came down to breakfast this morning bright and early and feeling fit as Van Haltron said, "to bat the backskin off the ball" this afternoon. It connotes means anything they'll do it, too.

Pop! Fisher, the ex-Chicagoan, is to have his first turn in the box, with Bowerman for a side partner. This same Fisher is said to be a foxy box man with a prize assortment of twisted stunts up his sleeve. We shall see what we shall see.

There was a hot rumor in town this morning that the courts had decided the La Jole case in favor of the American League and would give Seale the decision to-morrow. This will, if true, be a hard crack for League magnate John L. Rodgers and will virtually smash to splinters the "Reserve clause" under which the old league

SAW CRIPPLED LINER.—The liner Minnehaha, which arrived today from London, reports that on last Thursday, at 9:30 in the evening, she passed the American Liners steamship New York, from Southampton and Cherbourg, going at reduced speed.
